

Due to the COVID-19 situation as you may have read in the national press part of the prevention strategy is to avoid cross-infection by limiting the number of people who we meet and with this in mind, we have carefully considered alternative ways of delivering our service so that we can continue to meet your needs without placing you at unnecessary risk of infection.

We have therefore decided as a team that instead of inviting you to our clinic to attend your appointment, we will change this to a telephone appointment or video consultation appointment. If you have an appointment booked this will now be either a telephone or attend anywhere video consultation appointment. Letters to all patients currently booked in are going out in due course to confirm this.

All pain management groups are also now cancelled. If you are currently part of a group you will be phoned with an update in due course.
